

My Personal Philosophy by Jamie-lee Moyer

I believe that each child is an individual and as an educator I will value and develop each child's strengths, interests, skills, abilities and knowledge to extend their learning.

I believe that children learn through play. I will provide opportunities for children to explore, discover, create and imagine.

I believe in cultural diversity. I will celebrate the benefits of diversity with each individual child and enable them to understand and acknowledge differences.

The Early Years of a child's life are busy. I believe learning is happening all the time and is interwoven through all development domains. These include; physical, social/emotional, cognitive and communication.

Children need the assurance of being loved and cared for while they are enjoying on educational environment. Teaching children is my passion. Security and trust are very important components as well as my relationship with each child.

Children should be given choices, responsibilities and opportunities to initiate their own learning. With this I look forward to helping each child along their pathway of play, growth and fun while in my care.
